Here are some of the people in our lives at the consolidated Bible Institute in Wisconsin. We counted a dozen students this year whose parents were with us in the missions training 20 years ago; occasionally it has worked to host these friends when they visit their kids at the college.

You can visit too! We have a guest room and are only 1 ½ hours drive north of Chicago. See what God is doing in the hearts of young adults here to give them a vision for serving the Lord both at home and abroad.

These students--two couples and two dorm groups--met in our home twice a month during chapel hours. The couple with the baby graduated; Jon has taken a pastorate nearby. The others will be back in the fall, most with future plans for some sort of missions involvement.

Another significant milestone for Ethnos360 has been the completion of its Online Bible Institute. (You can check out a free introductory class at <https://learn.e360bible.org>)

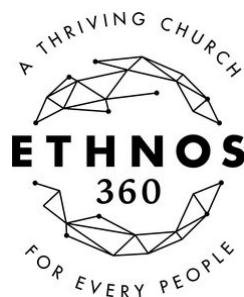

Our house is one of nearly a dozen that the Bible Institute purchased to expand housing during the consolidation. Maintenance of the off-campus buildings is Ken's primary responsibility; he frequently works alongside young interns and international staff that work here short-term before going on in the missions training.

Ken has a new phone number; please email us if you need it.

Andrea has enjoyed helping in Childcare, though subtle differences between the old and new campuses are sometimes confusing. (The fall childcare team is pictured above.) She is still figuring out what her "best-fit" for ministry should be here.

And on the home front, we are learning to parent adult kids long-distance, as our two oldest are living back in Michigan with Andrea's Mom. (Sadly, her Dad passed away unexpectedly in December.) Our two younger children are settling in well at their schools. We have sensed God's sustaining hand throughout all these changes.
